The SAN Supports Pro-Hobby California Bill, Rallies Behind Street Rod/Custom Vehicle Bill in Four More States

Street rods, customs and kit cars are a unique and exciting niche of the automotive hobby and are enjoyed by hobbyists across the country. That is why for the past 10 years the SAN, with the support of its dedicated enthusiasts, has championed SEMA-model legislation to make them easier to title and register. Beginning with Illinois in 2001, versions of our model bill have been successful in helping hobbyists title their rods in 20 states to date, and we are working to add four more states to the list: Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Ohio.

Beloved street rods and customs (including kit cars and replicas) have long struggled to find their place in the law. Almost all states have processes through which antiques can be registered, but fewer

LEGISLATIVE QUICK HITS

California Specially Constructed Vehicles: SAN-supported legislation to increase the allowable number of exempted specially constructed vehicle registrations from 500 to 750 vehicles per year was approved by the Assembly Transportation Committee. Current law provides for emissions-system certification and a model-year designation for specially constructed vehicles, including kit cars. Under the law, vehicle owners choose whether a smog-test referee certifies the engine model year or the vehicle model year. To determine model year, inspectors compare the vehicle to those of the era that the vehicle most closely resembles. If there is no close match, it is classified as a '60 vehicle. Only those emissions controls applicable to the model year and that can be reasonably accommodated by the vehicle are required. The Department of Motor Vehicles provides a new registration to the first 500 specially constructed vehicles per year that meet the criteria.

Kansas Specialty-Vehicle Fees: The SAN is opposing legislation to raise the registration fee on antiques, street rods and special-interest vehicles. The bill has already passed the House. The Senate substituted the House bill with all-new language to increase the state's revenue. One section of the substituted bill increases the registration fee for all passenger vehicles, while two separate sections were inserted to specifically target antiques and street rods/special-interest vehicles. Under the substituted bill, each of the registration fees would increase by $10 on January 1, 2013, and by another $10 on January 1, 2014.

Mississippi Nitrous Oxide: The SAN was successful in negotiating a compromise on legislation that originally threatened to prohibit public road use of all motor vehicles equipped to supply the engine with nitrous oxide. The bill was signed into law by Governor Haley Barbour. Originally written as an outright ban, the new law allows for the installation of nitrous-oxide systems as long as the feed lines are disconnected or the canisters are removed while the vehicle is being operated on a public road. The SAN amendment better protects public road safety while ensuring legitimate off-road uses of nitrous-oxide systems.

The new law requires that nitrous tanks have their feed lines disconnected or are removed when on public roads.

Massachusetts Exhaust Noise: A bill targeted for defeat by the SAN to ban the "use and sale of any exhaust pipe that increases the sound emissions of any vehicle, including motorcycles," was set aside for study by the legislature. This action means that the measure is unlikely to be considered by the legislature this year. Among other things, the measure ignored the fact that aftermarket exhaust systems are designed to make vehicles run more efficiently without increasing emissions and did not supply law enforcement with a clear standard to enforce, allowing officers to make subjective judgments on whether or not a modified exhaust system is in violation. Legislation to require the incorporation of noise-level testing into the vehicle inspection process was also set aside. The bill did not define a noise-level limit but allowed it to be determined by the regulators.

West Virginia Exhaust Noise: A SAN-opposed bill to provide that the noise from a motor-vehicle exhaust system that has been deemed "disturbing or unreasonably loud" constitutes the crime of disturbing the peace is dead for the year. Under the bill, violators could have been fined up to provide adequately for modified cars. Hobbyists attempting to title and register vehicles that they have built from the ground up must often find loopholes in their state's code to get it out on the road. The steps can be so time-consuming and confusing that many throw in the towel.

Then there is California. Every year, only 500 vehicles are eligible to be registered with the California DMV as an exempted specially constructed vehicle. If you are lucky enough to get one of these 500 registration slots (and they are hard to come by), you are then able to get a special smog-check designation. The registrant gets the choice of having their vehicle tested based on the model year of the body or the model year of the engine. If the body does not closely match any particular model year, then it is deemed to be a '60 model-year vehicle. California exempts from smog check all vehicles manufactured prior to the '76 model year.

Under current California policy, specially constructed vehicles that do not receive one of the 500 sequence numbers are subject to a "muddied" titling, registration and smog-check process. SEMA is currently working with lawmakers and the hobbyist community in California (most prominently, the Association of California Car Clubs) on a bill (A.B. 1740) to expand the program, raising the number of available registrations to 750 per year. In addition, A.B. 1740 will help allow vehicle owners to confidently take advantage of a newly enacted vehicle registration amnesty program for specially constructed vehicles that were previously registered or classified incorrectly. Under the new law, the DMV will grant amnesty from prosecution to vehicle owners if certain conditions are met, including the owner filing a completed application with the department.

In Ohio, a variation of the SEMA-model legislation (H.B. 199) was introduced by Representative Kenny Yuko, a long time ally of the SAN and member of the State Automotive Enthusiast Leadership Caucus. H.B. 199 currently awaits a vote by the House Transportation Committee before moving to the floor for a vote by all House members. The SAN is indebted to the enthusiasts who have been instrumental in promoting the legislation. SAN members Jim Wirth, Charles McCoy and Brad Hudson all traveled to the Capitol to testify on behalf of the bill, despite the inconvenience of several delays.

The enthusiast community in Ohio is not alone. Passionate SAN members in three other states are currently in the process of working with legislators to pass a version of our model. New York Assemblyman Bill Reilich, the chairman of the State Caucus and long-time car guy, has introduced A.B. 2429, which seeks to create a titling and registration classification for street rods and custom vehicles. The bill defines a street rod as an altered vehicle manufactured before 1949 and a custom as an altered vehicle at least 25 years old and manufactured after 1948. Under the bill, kit cars and replica vehicles will be assigned a certificate of title bearing the same model-year designation as the production vehicle they most closely resemble.

Head south and you will find yourself in the company of yet more auto enthusiasts. Caucus members in the New Jersey Assembly, including Charlotte Vandervalk, Gary Chiusano and Alison Littell McHose, introduced model legislation (A.B. 448) similar to New York's earlier this year.

To round out the four, there is Massachusetts, which has made significant progress with its street-rod bill, H.B. 4557. SAN is working with state legislators, regulators and vehicle hobbyists (including the Massachusetts Association of Automobile Clubs) on a compromise to SEMA-model legislation to create comprehensive registration classifications for street rods, customs, replicas and specially constructed vehicles.

Without the support of enthusiasts like you, these bills won't be going anywhere. So make sure to get involved, show support for the legislators who are supporting the hobby and take action! Visit www.semasan.com for all the latest updates on these and many other issues.

Summary of the SEMA Street Rod Custom Vehicle Bill

- Defines a street rod as an altered vehicle manufactured before 1949 and a custom vehicle as an altered vehicle manufactured after 1948.
- Provides specific registration classes and license plates for street rods and custom vehicles.
- Provides that replica vehicles and kit cars will be assigned the same model-year designations as the production vehicles they most closely resemble and allows the use of non-original materials.
- Exempts street rods and custom vehicles from periodic vehicle inspections and emissions inspections.
- Provides that vehicles titled and registered as street rods and custom vehicles may only be used for occasional transportation, exhibitions, club activities, parades, tours, etc. and not for general daily transportation.
- Exempts street rods and custom vehicles from a range of standard equipment requirements.
- Allows the use of blue-DOT taillights on street rods and custom vehicles.

$1,000 per occurrence, jailed for six months or both. Among other things, the bill did not supply law enforcement with an enforcement standard, allowing officers to make subjective judgments on whether an exhaust system is "disturbing or unreasonably loud;" failed to recognize that a better way to address this issue is by establishing a fair and reasonable exhaust-noise decibel limit; ignored the fact that aftermarket exhaust systems are designed to make vehicles run more efficiently without increasing emissions; and would make it difficult for hobbyists to replace factory exhaust systems with more durable, better-performing options.

HEY, THAT'S MY CAR!

One Fabulous Fairlane

1964 Ford Fairlane 500

Owner: Don and Cheryn Wilson
Sonoma, California

I've been a car enthusiast my whole life, but went through a stage where I wasn't able to participate in the hobby the way I would have liked. If you'd talked with me six years ago I'd never have thought I'd be back into cars, but luckily I met the gal of my dreams and we were married five years ago. Thankfully, she not only humored my passion for cars but wanted to participate with me in attending as many car shows and swap meets as possible. After so many years of not being involved, I knew it was the right time to jump back in, and that meant looking for the car of my dreams.

Three years ago, after a long search, we found a Ford Fairlane for sale right here in Sonoma. It was in decent shape, but it needed some work. Fortunately, it was in good enough shape that it could still get us into car shows, which led us to join the Cruisin' North Car Club of Sonoma. We set about working on the car as time allowed, and the first year we put seat covers in with the help of a friend who did upholstery. He does not do cars but was still able to give us some help with the springs and framework.

Last winter, with the help of Jeff, the owner of Sonoma County Street Rodz, we had his company install a remanufactured engine from Marshall Engines. Between our lack of garage space and my age, I can't do the big stuff anymore. But with the help of others, we still got our new engine and it runs great! The tax man willing, we'll start on redoing the suspension next winter. For now, though, we are going to enjoy the Fairlane all this summer and our dream is to cover parts of Route 66 in the near future. Happy motoring to all!

CLUB SPOTLIGHT

Car Club Gifts Set of Tools to Local High School

The Rods-N-Relics Car Club (RNR) of Cedarburg, Wisconsin, hosts a variety of car shows and events throughout the year, catering to all manner of old and classic cars. While their shows are great and everyone has a good time, what they are best known for is their charitable giving and desire to give back to the community.

Each year, Rods-N-Relics raises money at their events and uses it to donate badly needed tools to local high schools to help them maintain their auto tech classes. This year, Mequon's Homestead High School Automotive Tech classes have received a gift of more than $2,000 worth of tools, including hand wrenches, pliers, a floor jack, floor stands, flaring and bending items and front end and wheel service sets. RNR members met with the class instructor and the NAPA stores sales representative from whom the tools were purchased in making the presentation.

Gregg Goetz, president of Rods-N-Relics, explains why the club feels so strongly about giving the gift of tools: "As a nation, we're losing our base of old-time mechanical arts. Today, mechanics learn to fix computer-related problems. Fewer people know how to rebuild an old carburetor or adjust a car's timing just by listening to how it runs."

For more information on Rods-N-Relics, visit them online at www.rodsnrelics.org.
